

I am furious at the way companies and internet companies are getting around the "Do Not Call" list for cell phones. I only get 250 mins on my lifeline cell phone and am angry that they have gotten my phone number and are calling to make me buy their services. It takes time off my phone just to delete these messages, let alone get stuck answering one of them. I have told them that i am on the "Do Not Call" list and they have said that because i signed up for a contest that i agreed to their calls and i did NOT knowingly agree to this type of sales call. They are now wearing out my phone minutes and i am angry because i just dont have the time to waste on that crap which was the whole point to the "Do Not Call" list in the first place. So, My question is CAN I HAVE SOME PRIVACY PLEASE! Take the cell phone lists away from the companies! They should have NEVER been allowed to get them in the first place and WE PAY FOR THEIR CALLS - OR RATHER - THE GOV'T IS NOW! IS THIS REALLY WHERE YOU WANT THE GOV'T MONEY TO GO!
