

The NFL should consider the fact that if more people can see the teams play on television, they may get more fans. More fans means more money.