

Why do rules always benefit the big business. As a citizen and football fan I would like the same right as anybody else regardless of my viewing area. I do not enjoy the game in as much person as I do at home. I can drink and not drive, so it is safer. I can yell as loud as I want and I do not have to hear other people yell. If it is being broadcast I have the right to view it and not be extorted for hundreds of dollars. They are already getting paid by the TV companies to broadcast. If they want more people in the stands make going to the game a better experience. Power to the people!
