

Dear FCC,

Blackouts are ridiculous in the day and age of the internet when I can just switch my TV over to my computer feed and watch the game via online feed.

Eventually, there will be an international website that will stream this product better than the networks and then you will have to rethink the entire broadcast model. Internet streaming televisions are very close to coming off assembly lines for consumers.

Bottom line... Blackouts are outdated and hurt everyone... even the NFL that applies them.
