

Federal Communications Commission

My Comments:

My name is Jason Deery. Convo (<http://convorelay.com/>) discussed about High-Speed Internet access. That's what I like to comment; who can affordability for Broadband Internet. For example: who live farm in area without have a cable high-speed internet. Just using a satellite high-speed internet. Different between satellite and cable are same prices and not same speeds. Hughesnet.com is satellite high-speed price $60.00 monthly and 1.0 Mps/200 Kbps and Comcast is normal cable high-speed price $60.00 and 20 Mps (too fastest than satellite). If anyone deaf or hard of hearing; who are not enough income for affordability high-speed. It should be give half or free for high-speed internet. Reason, using call with the any VRS (video relay service) with must high-speed internet on the good high video.

Thank you,

Jason Deery
