

My family boats at Lake Shasta in California. The lake has miles and miles of narrow "arms" and "fingers". There are many times when we would be lost without the GPS. A map is only helpful if you ALREADY know where you are. By GPS, we've been able to direct the Shasta Sheriff to our location by reference to the GPS and map. I'm sure that there are countless other boaters who would have been "lost" without GPS. Unlike land streets, there are NO SIGNS on a lake.
Please protect GPS.
