

I depend on my GPS working accurately and reliably when sailing off the coast of Maine. Not only does our coast have many dangerous ledges that need to be avoided, we have dense fog that can roll in in minutes causing near zero visibility.

Without a reliable GPS, I would be in great danger. I implore you not to allow anything be permitted that would interfere with the accuracy and reliability of the current GPS system. Thank you for your attention.

Elwood Trask