

I'm a GPS user in my car and also on my boat in domestic and international waters. Please stand firm in your decision to remove the LightSquared app from further consideration for approval. The data has spoken that the assertion by LightSquared that the deployment of their proposed communications system will have no, or at minimum, a fixable impact on the publicly funded and widely used global positioning system is false. Anything that compromises the accuracy and reliability of the GPS is totally unacceptable. It is unfortunate that this company did not do their homework properly before hand, but the GPS is one of those things beyond reach of powerful corporate interests and agendas. As a taxpayer, I'm asking that the FCC does not bend to such agendas.
