

I fish off the island of Oahu, often well out of the sight of land. I rely on my GPS to get home, particularly when the visibility decreases as a result of VOG. Any electro-magnetic interference that degrades my GPS signal puts me in danger of not finding my way home. Landfalls after dark can be tricky enough with a reliable GPS signal - without it becomes a life-threatening situation.