

I support FCC proposed withdrawal of LightSquared's approval for their new cellular broadband service. I use GPS in boating and hunting. It is extremely important that reliable GPS signals are available at all times for my personal safety and my guests and family particularly in the marine environment. Wireless broadband service is important, but it should not come at the expense of GPS. I believe that GPS has prevented many, many marine disasters since it has been available to the public and therefore should not be allowed to be unreliable.
