

Thank you for reconsidering the LightSquared proposal. I am a sailor and I also travel a great deal for work; GPS is very important to me in both endeavors, particularly on the water as Maine can get a bit foggy at times. Our passages are also narrow and occasionally hazardous, so any interference that degrades the GPS signal increases the danger to my boat and passengers.