

I would be greatly, negatively impacted by any interruption to GPS services. I use them in three cars that I own, my boat, and in my iPhone. I use all of these heavily. While greater broadband coverage would be nice, the GPS services are essential. I oppose any technology that would interfere with them.