

To FCC Commissioners Genachowski, Clyburn and McDowell:

Monopolies are the problem in many sectors in which the people−elected and appointed governments are failing to protect the public from misinformation. The FCC used to be much stronger, when I got my ham license in 1956, and you need to reclaim the public's objectives of independent access to vital information. Broadcasters should be accountable for lies and distortions of the truth when it comes time for license renewal!

Regards,

Dr. Martin C. Michener

United States of America