

As the only source of electronic navigation utilized by the boating community, Any disruption of service would jepodize the safety of the many people that rely the GPS system.