

As boaters, drivers, business owners, parents, and grandparents, we rely on the accuracy of GPS for getting us where we are going, our staff to customers and back on time, to navigate the waters of the Northwest, as well as many other ways. Perhaps the most important use is to locate others who are in need of assistance or be located by emergency responders in the case of an accident or boat mishap. Time is critical in the cold waters of this area. A few minutes delay in locating person(s) in need can mean death or survival. Do Not jeopardize the safety of those you are to be serving no matter what the incentive
