

The integrity of the GPS system is vital to all land based and nautical navigation including search and rescue operations.