

Communication and free speech form the foundation for democracy. However, even if we lived in a dictatorship, responding to a potentially dangerous situation by preventing those in effected from calling for help is beyond absurd.