

The proposed action will pose navigational risk to all mariners, who depend on the accuracy of their global positioning systems along with other devices, and local charts. I am not talking about inconvenience, but the real probability of damage to property and loss of life. This action affects significant amounts of commerce from shipping to passenger travel, to the fishing industry. I urge the FCC to stop this threat to our livelihoods.