

I want more competition in cellular service that will help reduce prices.

I want better coverage and service reliability, especially in rural America.

I want more cellular capacity so that more calls can go through in an emergency.