

Actually what's necessary is one full service for us all everywhere, sufficient, with no need for competition because all our services and material of life are given to us all by us all with no profit.