

Every day former President George W. Bush and Vice President Dick Cheney are not indicted for the three major crimes they committed against the U.S. – defrauding the nation for the express purpose of winning public support for the 2003 Iraq War before the war was authorized, illegal and unconstitutional warrantless wiretaps of our communications and knowingly allowing torture abroad it sends a signal that Presidents and Vice Presidents are above the law. That is not right. A new book Cheating Justice discusses the three crimes of the Bush Cheney Administration and need for justice to be brought. If Bush and Cheney are allowed to keep getting away with their crimes committed in office what's to discourage future Presidents from engaging in such crimes. Also in the process of committing said crimes in the post 9/11 America the country lost freedoms. The warrantless wiretaps and electronic surveillance are bad enough. Don't allow entities engaging in illegal wireless blocking to get away with it.
