

Verizon Wireless which wants to acquire more AWS spectrum with its SpectrumCo and Cox applications has like AT&T Mobility discontinued unlimited data plans and might be trying to pressure existing unlimited data users allowed to keep their unlimited data plans into switching to a tiered plan by slowing down Internet speeds of unlimited users. These companies have set an arbitrary data cap – there is no bandwidth shortage and they say if you exceed your data cap they can throttle your Internet and add overage charges to your bill each month you go over. If a 4GB data cap is insufficient for you they offer a 5 or 6 GB data cap but that costs more per month. This is a rip-off. Also please deny the Verizon SpectrumCo and Cox transactions while requiring interoperability in the 700 Mhz bands and setting strong rules for carriers using or holding AWS spectrum.
