

The "inticramming" rules applied to land lines should also apply to mobile phones. No additional services should be permitted without the consumer having to opt in.

Thankk you for considering my comments.