

I bought a small 3 light LED fixture and installed it above my kitchen sink. Everytime I turn it on, the stations on my AM radio are virtually destroyed with intense static, I hired an electrician to solve this problem. The electrician told me this is something I will have to live with as all LED fixtures, via their transformers, transmit this "static". Please advise what I can do to reduce this static, short of throwing my LED out.