

How can American people get the actual news today without companies like CBS,NBC,ABC,MSNBC,CNN, and FOX who put their version of spin to the actual story. Doesn't the FCC have an obligation to make sure the American people get an unbiased story? This is worst then yellow journalism. These companies all have a political stake in politics. If they don't want to report the news accurately, then they should not be in the business in rporting. They should call their show something else, but not the news. They have lost their trust with the American people. Have they no shame. The FCC should address this matter appropriately. They are all out of control.

Thank you.

Michael Bartolotta