

As the spouse of a Deaf individual, I do not feel that CAs (VIs) need to be nationally certified. There are multiple testing systems that are available for sign language interpreters to take and receive certification. If a VI receives a state or QA certification they should be able to work in VRS if they meet the qualifications of the vrs company.