

To FCC Commissioners Genachowski, Clyburn and McDowell:

If we allow dual ownership of TV and print media, the six corporations who already control most of our media will be able to consolidate even further. How can democracy thrive under such conditions? We need a truly independent media that provides unbiased information, so people can make intelligent decisions. We have already lost much of this over the last fifty years as these corporations have gobbled up everything in sight. I'm appalled that you're even considering allowing them to take this further. If the FCC cannot be trusted to protect our media, what exactly are we funding them to do?
