

The USA has capability to use text to speech and advanced Internet connections, not being made available to the blind community. With limited income, paying Comcast for TV, phone and Internet connections should expand to skype and other wyfy products such as Ipod Touch. I am also a Verizon user with non-Internet access for cost reasons. Menus on TV are not accessible to blind as well.