FCC Principles for Open Measurements

- Evolution of Program
  - The FCC, working with a broad cross section of communities, will guide the development and any changes to the measurement infrastructure according to the principles of openness, fairness and accepted principles of scientific research. Any changes will be consistent with the policies we have outlined