

It's important to ensure that cable companies act independently so that consumers can continue to have choice and benefit from the improvements that companies' competition can generate.