

I work for the country's largest utility, and while monopolies may offer many benefits for the companies and to some point their consumers; the negatives far outweigh any benefits. Time Warner and ComCast already have monopolies on cable television and high-speed internet and most consumers are not pleased. Verizon has a history of forcing out competition and has recently been abusing its employees. Together, these companies will be unstoppable - even by the government. Please protect the consumers by keeping this deal off the table, and encourage competition in the free market. If we wanted one large telecommunications company for the whole country, we'd move to Mexico. Thank you.
