

Verizon already provides shoddy wireless service. They have an awful record in rectifying service problems.

If history is the best predictor of the future, then their proposed link with Comcast, et al. will result in poorer service, less accountability and higher prices. Verizon should sink or swim in a competitive environment. They are seeking to control competition to their own ends.