

We need honest competition of products. Not just of the same product repackaged. The sharing of some infrastructure may be necessary, but the creation of new infrastructure will really spur competition and improve quality.