Dear Ms. Dortch:

On Thursday, September 6, 2012, Shirley Bloomfield and the undersigned on behalf of the National Telecommunications Cooperative Association (“NTCA”), met with Zachary Katz, Chief of Staff to Chairman Julius Genachowski, and Michael Steffen, the Chairman’s Wireline Legal Advisor, to discuss certain matters in the above-referenced proceedings.

NTCA discussed ongoing concerns relating to the transparency, accuracy, and predictability of regression analysis-based caps on universal service fund (“USF”) support. NTCA raised the need to address these issues consistent with the Applications for Review filed by NTCA and many others. See Application for Review of NTCA, et al., WC Docket No. 10-90 (filed May 25, 2012). NTCA further asserted that the broadband policy objectives of the Federal Communications Commission (the “Commission”) can only be achieved through clear and well-tested “business rules” that provide sufficient support and enable company managers to predict with a reasonable degree of certainty what investments and operations will be recoverable (or unrecoverable) through USF support prospectively. NTCA explained that necessary and appropriate changes can be achieved in short order without affecting USF “budgetary” objectives or creating any technical or administrative concerns.

NTCA also expressed concern with the adoption of any further caps, cuts, and constraints on USF support and intercarrier compensation in the wake of the Commission's November 2011 reform Order. The Commission has described its own actions in that Order as "sweeping reforms" and an "overhaul [that] transforms the FCC's outdated universal service and intercarrier compensations systems into a new Connect America Fund, or CAF, representing the most significant policy step ever taken to connect all Americans to broadband." FCC Releases 'Connect America Fund' Order to Help Expand Broadband, Create Jobs, Benefit Consumers, Commission Press Release (rel. Nov. 18, 2011). NTCA notes that the "dust has not even started to settle" on these "sweeping reforms," and that end users face the prospect of significant rate increases as a result of the actions just taken. NTCA also observes that numerous questions and substantial confusion persist with respect to implementation of the November 2011 Order – including numerous intercarrier compensation tariffing issues and the aforementioned inability to operate and identify what might be a "prudent" investment in the face of the unclear regression analysis caps. NTCA therefore maintains that it is both prudent and essential for the Commission to gather data and evaluate the effects of reform on consumers and broadband deployment before deciding upon what next steps, if any, might be necessary.

Pursuant to Section 1.1206 of the Commission's rules, a copy of this letter is being filed via ECFS. If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact the undersigned.

Sincerely,

/s/ Michael R. Romano
