

This election season voters will undoubtedly have to decide on the legacy of FDR's New Deal, LBJ's Great Society programs (Social Security, Medicare, Medicaid, Pell Grants) and yes President Obama's healthcare reform law the Affordable Care Act (aka Obamacare) that is whether to continue them in the future or let the progress of the 20th century and 21st century progress under Obama be repealed. However, voting rights are also at stake the concept of one person per vote is under threat. Democracy isn't rocket science we need more people voting and less money corrupting. With SCOTUS's Citizens United ruling its become one dollar one vote instead. We need an Open Internet to fight back.
