

Chairman Genachowski,

To whom it may concern,

I am a sign language interpreter in New Mexico and I work in video relay service interpreting. As a VRS interpreter I get first-hand knowledge of the importance of our continued service to our diverse communities nationwide. The quality and constant innovations the VRS providers are constantly providing is not only keeping up with the constant changes and competition that continues to pervade in the world of technology, but it also keeps the Deaf and hearing families up to date with the best quality of phone service communication available for consumers. The service gives our consumers choices, i.e., phone messages, call waiting, caller id, etc...

I hope this wonderful service will continue to serve our deaf and hearing communities nationwide.

Sincerely,

Natasha Terry

This service also provides many interpreters with employment nationwide, regional and national exposure to various sign language vernacular and dialects, as all signs are not the same, and many of us feel honored to be a part of the various providers we represent. Natasha Terry
