

My internet access is so slow that a sign language video being downloaded would stop frequently and play only a little between long pauses. It is discriminatory to force deaf people to pay extra for internet access to communicate in ASL, their native language, while hearing people don't have to pay extra to communicate in Spanish at a normal speed via a regular phone.