

In the past year, anti-worker groups have used illegal text message spam to flood voters during the Wisconsin recall election and more recently in this past election. Some of the messages have been pretty extreme and ugly. For example, the Tom Barrett headquarters were flooded when a text message went out accusing him of being a "union puppet" with a link to calling his office. More recently, people were hit with messages such as: "Voting for Obama means voting for same-sex marriage," as well as "Obama stole $716 Billion in Medicare. We cant [sic] trust Obama to protect our seniors," and "VP Biden mocks a fallen Navy Seal during memorial. Our military deserves better."
