

Stop teaching our kids to kill. TV, movies and video games are full of violence. We have been taught for generations that we become what we think about. How can we feed our kids a diet of violence and expect them not to be violent. The 14 year old that has killed a 100 people a day for five years on a video screen may begin to think this is the solution to all issues.