

Regarding the article published by a Gannett Company owned news outlet entitled: "Map: Where are the gun permits in your neighborhood?" (link: <http://www.lohud.com/interactive/article/20121223/NEWS01/121221011> ) This is an example of dangerous and irresponsible reporting and does not fall under it's filed heading of News/Local News. These permit owners are probably completely unaware that a news paper has published their information online and are now targets for burglaries. All a criminal has to do is wait until no one is home and go shopping illegally for firearms. Don't these people at Gannett know that stolen firearm account for most of deaths by firearms in the U.S.? To make a point they're willing to put the lives of more people at risk and potentially increase violent crime. What's more is they've cataloged these folks like a sex offender registry, for obtaining a permit written into law by our elected representatives to do something that is already constitutionally granted. Unbelievable. What will they do when someone gets hurt or killed over their actions? Unbelievably irresponsible. Such reckless endangerment. Please FCC do something about our out of control media!
