

If we really want a free country, then we need opinions from all sectors of society. What we don't need is for our media to be consolidated. This is a very dangerous idea. The threat of a media takeover, that is media being owned by big companies and corporations, is a real threat of one-sided views on events. We would become a narrow and closed society, one that is decidedly un-american. This is not what our country stands for. We must be really a free society, not in name only. I am absolutely against this idea. Do not let this happen.
