Dear Chairman Genachowski:

I run a company that offers internet services to my clients. Our success is reliant upon us always being ahead of the curve.

Innovation has been, and continues to be, one of the greatest strengths of our country and has been a cornerstone of our economy. One way that the Federal Communications Commission can assist with increasing continued innovation is by wisely using the available spectrum.

The FCC has done much to provide for the proper use of the spectrum for the public good. There is yet another opportunity along these lines in the proposal submitted by LightSquared.

LightSquared has made a significant investment in their business and is in the best position to immediately begin service. While there are many advantages that the company offers once they are approved, I am most interested in their ability to help drive new innovation in the mobile broadband field. As new companies have been allowed in, there has been dramatic growth in the number of new services that are available to the customer. Please approve the LightSquared request as soon as possible. We will all benefit.

Thank you for your attention to this issue.

Sincerely,
