

To the Federal Communications Commission:

The reassessment of all guidelines regarding Radio Frequency Radiation is long overdue. An impartial panel should be comprised of scientists and physicians who specialize in this field. This would include those who have sent in comment and recommendations. A major emphasis on pediatrics is paramount. The possible non-thermal RFR link to Autism and other DNA damage must be explored fully. The human experiment in forced smart meter deployment is another such unstudied wireless device. The rapid implementation of Common Core WiFi technology in schools should come to a halt until proven 100% safe for all children.

Stephanie Austin

(* Note: My first comments did not appear, this may be a duplicate.)