

I was approached by an obviously homeless man (mentally ill? Drunk?) while on a job doing a parking lot. He walked into my enclosed trailer and basically trapped me in there. I pushed him off with a very large Crescent wrench and he left the scene after a few minutes of ranting obscenities at me. I got off the trailer and grabbed my phone. Texted 911 the address and this comment "I am being harassed and possibly robbed. Please sent help to 600 N. Lamar at the Lululemon store". It did not get a reply but a few minutes later the man circled around the building and came back to me. It was then that I dialed 911 and started yelling into the phone that I needed help. They finally came but I didn't know what to expect. I didn't know if they were coming. I didn't know if they even could UNDERSTAND me. I may be able to speak but I still have a Deaf accent. Thank you for your time.
