

Proceeding # 13-86

I submit that relaxing the restrictions in place does not provide families with any safety on network TV. There are many channels available, as well as much available on the Internet. Maintaining this one small piece to have guidelines is important. My guess is that the lobbying behind this suggestion is being done for the purpose of making more money for those making the shows and the network TV channels. This is not a good and honorable reason to change the guidelines.
