

I am writing to implore you to keep foul language and nudity off of the air. If I don't use the "F" bomb, why should I have to worry if a television show is going to drop it while we are watching t.v.? If I don't walk around undressed in front of my children, why should I have to worry about my kids seeing it on t.v.? You've relaxed standards so much already that I have turned the television off more than ever. You only seek to alienate those of us who have standards. Re-examine your misguided standards, and allow us to enjoy television without worry.
