

Not on children television channels & shows of course. Not in commercials that children can see. Only on radio stations & television channels that are directed more toward adults. Evening hours when children should be in bed would be more appropriate.

I am an father with children & monitor what my children listen to & watch, so if it is something I think is inappropriate then I can change the channel or station. Not like they do not hear the language from their peers anyway.