

Public decency is constitutionally enforceable as determined by the Supreme Court. In fact, for those who care about accurate history, the 1st Amendment was designed specifically to allow criticism of government, but did not allow for vulgar speech and indecent images and exposure in public venues. That has been grossly distorted.

Please don't lower your standards. Relaxing your standards serves only to corrupt our culture and cause society to become even more uncivilized than it already has become. Children, especially, will be harmed.

If anything you should be raising standards to help society achieve a high level of self respect and decency. Please don't let special interests corrupt American moral standards for the sake of the god-almighty dollar.
