

I strongly urge the FCC to continue to ban expletives and any type of nudity, no matter how "fleeting" from the air waves, including language on the radio waves. I appreciate that even the cable channels edit inappropriate words and nudity, let alone network TV. If people want filth, they can easily find it on the internet. Please don't allow television to be infiltrated with it as well.

There needs to be some form of media that is not totally corrupted. Thank you.
