Re: The impact of decency policy in broadcasts

From: Jack Gentry, 3340 Shea Road, Collierville, TN 38017

Current broadcast decency law prohibits expletives and nudity.

In the context of human dignity, the continued spiral downward into vulgar, lewd, content for communication, and broadcast media, destroys our culture of civilized discourse. The fabric of "what is America" is strongly influenced by the media, movies, etc.

Children in particular are negatively impacted. Their worldview will include raw nudity, uncivilized vulgarities, and the context in which they are used, as part of "normal" communication in all forms.

The question you must ask yourself is: Are you in favor of a degenerative policy that directs our children away from human decency, civil standards of communication, and courteous, respectful behavior?

My supposition is that you will vote based on your own standard of character, class, and dignity.

Please, Keep our standards high. In fact, raise them by fostering a policy of decency, respect, and language standards, that strengthens our culture rather than one that erodes it.
